

The Kalapuya Weaver

Comes to Talent

May 14th from 6 to 7:30 pm

at the Talent Community Center, 104 E. Main Street

The event is hosted by the Talent Historical Society. It is a rare opportunity to see how the original inhabitants of this land, that today is the Rogue Valley, used local resources to make their baskets, which were beautiful and essential to their way of life.

Rooted Ways will also present the uses of Native Plants.

The event is free to the public, made possible by Jackson County Cultural Coalition, funded through the Oregon Cultural Trust, SOU Native Studies Program and the Talent Business Alliance through the OSTA Project (Our Stories Through Art), and private donor, Anne Golden.

Everyone is welcome. Donations are appreciated.
